Foreword

A slender column suggests various thoughts to the student of history. The ancient Greeks are noted for their development of three types of architecture as exemplified by the Doric, Ionic, and Corinthian orders. These types may be seen in some of the famous buildings of the day. Modifications of these three types are seen in the stately mansions of the South.

Architecture is not the only area in which a shaft may be used, for the Romans used a column to commemorate a favored person, or an important event. The daily happenings of your school life are events that will become more important with the passage of time, for these events are indications of the measure of success that you will achieve. As you contemplate the events that are pictured in this volume, may they be regarded as stepping stones to greater success.

The Staff of 1968 presents the following pages of "Whispering Hills" as a memorial to a span of time that is gone, but not forgotten.

Taught Us

We dedicate our portion of this Annual to you, Mrs. Frieda Flerl, with much appreciation for your many services.

Student Nurse of the Year

This dark haired senior comes to us from Bean Station, Tennessee. She has been active this year as Vice-President of the Senior class Missionary Volunteer leader for the Student Nurses.

With her sunny smile and fun lovin' ways, she has made many friends during her stay here. We the Underclassmen have chosen her as the Student Nurse of the Year. We present to you Cathy Wilkes, Student Nurse of the Year 1967-1968.

DEDICATION

Your unceasing efforts to help us develop traits of character that will endure have been appreciated by Fletcher students even though the remedy has not always been easy. When mistakes have been made you have been willing to forgive and forget. Your praise when earned, has not been lavish, but sincere. Because we feel that you are genuinely interested in each of us as individuals, we, the student body of Fletcher Academy, dedicate our portion of "Whispering Hills" to you, Mrs. Rittie J. Smith.

Principal's Message

Dear Fletcher Students:

From time immemorial the stars have served as the unerring guides to travelers of land and sea. In more recent times these same stars have become the guides for navigators finding their way through the light and darkness of space. Centuries ago the prophet wrote "and they that be wise shall shine as the brightness of the firmament and they that turn many to righteousness as the stars forever and ever." Years later Jesus said, "Let your light so shine." It is clear that these quotations refer to people, and that these people are being compared to the heavenly lights.

As the stars have served as guides so men might know their whereabouts on earth and as they give light and warmth without which life would be impossible, so men may serve in their world of personal influence.

Youth, to what purpose is all your effort toward the goals of education? To what purpose has society, church and family provided you with this opportunity and insisted by law that you take advantage of it? The simple answer could well be this--that you might do your share of shining in a world that needs a lot of shining. What will your share be like? Will it be a steady glow to serve as a guide to the many who need direction--and providing light and warmth to those who need life? Will it be like a sky rocket--brilliant for the moment but leaving the world in greater darkness than it was before?

Hold high the torch!
You did not light its glow--
'Twas given you by other hands, you know.
'Tis only yours to keep it burning bright,
Yours to pass on when you no more need light;
For there are other feet that you must guide,
And other forms go marching by your side.
Their eyes are watching every tear and smile;
And efforts which you think are not worthwhile
May sometimes be the very helps they need,
Actions to which their souls would give most heed,
So that in turn they'll hold it high and say,
"I watched another carry it this way."

--Author Unknown

George Bernard Shaw seems to have caught this idea for his own life. "Life is no bried candle to me. It is a sort of splendid torch which I have caught hold of for the moment and I want to make it burn as brightly as possible before passing it on to future generations."

So students, let me urge you to keep your eyes and heart on the not too distant event toward which all mankind moves and while so doing hold high your torch.

Sincerely yours,

Lewis E. Nestell

New England Memorial Hospital

STONEHAM, MASSACHUSETTS 02180

New Hospital to Cost $5.5 Million

The August 6, 1967 ground-breaking ceremony, at which John A. Volpe, Governor of the State of Massachusetts, was the keynote speaker, marked the culmination of many months of planning this beautiful modern structure.

Bed capacity will be increased from 185 to 285 beds, completely modern in every detail--with a double corridor design locating the nurses' stations and service rooms in the center section, near all patients.

The hospital takes pride in being a part of the growing communities it serves. The Massachusetts Bay Area has outstanding educational and recreational facilities, including excellent Seventh-day Adventist and public school systems, and internationally recognized universities and colleges. The area is rich in the tradition and culture of our founding fathers, with never-ending points of interest for naturalist, scientist, historian, and tourist alike.

A four-season climate, attractive parks, nearby lakes, mountains, forests, numerous summer and winter recreational resorts--and most of all, friendly people and adequate housing--make the area an ideal place in which to live and work.
