Foreword

The Bible tells us that landmarks are important. An important landmark at Fletcher Academy is our bell tower and bell.

Through the years our bell has signaled us to come to meals, to work, to classes and to meetings. It has rung at inopportune times to signal a prankster was present.

Today, electronics has taken over most of the tasks of our bell. The one task that remains is to signal that another Sabbath has slipped into eternity.

However, the tower still remains a place where friends meet. May you meet old friends as you peruse these pages.

The Florence Nightingale Pledge

"I solemnly pledge myself before God
And in the Presence of this assembly;

To pass my life in purity
And to practice my profession faithfully.

I will abstain from whatever is deleterious
And mischievous, and will not take or knowingly
Administer any harmful drug.

I will do all in my power to maintain
And elevate the standard of my profession,
And will hold in confidence all personal
Matters committed to my keeping
And all family affairs coming to my knowledge
In the practice of my profession.

With loyalty will I endeavor to aid the Physician in his work, and devote myself to
The welfare of those committed to my care."

Dr. Arthur A. Pearson

Dedication

We, the nursing students, appreciate the sincere earnestness, humor, and cheerfulness you manifest as you work with us in the hospital and as we meet you in the halls or on campus. We appreciate your dignity, refined by age, and we appreciate your youngness of heart. But our appreciation is best expressed by simply saying "we love you".

For this reason we dedicate our portion of the 1971 WHISPERING HILLS to you,

DR. ARTHUR A. PEARSON

Student Nurse Of The Year

Mrs. Ann Reese

We admire the determination you manifest in working toward achieving your goal in your chosen profession. We admire your dedication and appreciate your willingness to help us when you can. Your friendly smile, your kindness and fun-loving ways brighten our days.

These are a few of the reasons why we, the underclassmen, have chosen you, ANN REESE as 1971 Student Nurse of the Year.

Nursing - 1897

Daily sweep and mop the floors of your ward, dust the patient's furniture and window sills.

Maintain an even temperature in your ward by bringing in a scuttle of coal for the day's business.

Light is important to observe the patient's condition. Therefore, each day fill kerosene lamps, clean chimneys, and trim wicks. Wash the windows once a week.

The nurse's notes are important in aiding the physician's work. Make your pens carefully, you may whittle nibs to your individual taste.

Each nurse on day duty will report every day at 7 a.m. and leave at 8 p.m., except on the Sabbath on which day you will be off from noon to 2 p.m.

Graduate nurses in good standing with the director of nurses will be given an evening off each week if you go regularly to church.

Each nurse should lay aside from each pay day a goodly sum of her earnings for her benefits during her declining years, so that she will not become a burden. For example, if you earn $30 a month you should set aside $15.

Any nurse who smokes, uses liquor in any form, gets her hair done at a beauty shop, or frequents dance halls will give the director of nurses good reason to suspect her worth, intention and integrity.

The nurse who performs her labors, serves her patients and doctors faithfully and without fault for a period of 5 years will be given an increase, by the hospital administration, of five cents a day providing there are no hospital debts outstanding.

DEDICATION

Miss Sharon Pearson

Monday morning, steel-gray, cold. More blah than blue, and you've lost your Algebra book with your assignment in it. And that's your next class. Only five minutes 'til the bell, where is that book?

You take the stairs to the office, two steps at a time. And you find the window closed. Desparately you feel the final drain of energy, when suddenly.....

It opens. A smiling face, a laughing voice and Miss Pearson says, "Hi! I bet I know what you want!" And then you look down and your trembling hands are holding a big red book, Algebra. Your system reverses. This day has possibilities. Someone cares.

And you're not the only one who feels it. All day long they come and go: those who need help, who need advice, who need a friend or just to say "Hi!" They come searching, leave satisfied.

For in her eyes and smile and voice you can see and hear -- she cares. Not just that you go to classes, but that your classes are meaningful, happy, productive. For Sharon Pearson nothing is too complicated, too simple, too big, or too small.

Maybe that's the reason we care too, and why we love her.

In Appreciation For Many Years Of Service

Each year we honor some of our workers whose lives have made possible growth and progress on our campus.

We believe he serves well who lives well, laughs often and loves much; who gains the respect of men and the love of little children; who fills his niche and accomplishes his task whether by a Pathfinder camporee organized, a perfectly tuned motor, a well-completed office day, an order filled with a smile, or a gentle word in the operating room; who appreciates the beauties of earth and never fails to express this appreciation; who looks for the best in others and gives the best he has.

These lines speak for those we honor on this page.

On May 30, Glenda and Gary "took the wings of the morning" as they left Mackinac Island airport in a small aircraft. Their flight was never completed. Only time will erase the grief, but not the memory of these graduates of Fletcher Academy.

Principal's Message

WISDOM -

... The ultimate end of man's quest for truth, the final aim of all learning, the highest form of knowledge, the supreme virtue of mind and character.

... That which enables a man to judge situations correctly, to live prudently, to see beneath the surface of life to the principles and causes of things.

... That goal whose attainment brings the peace of complete fulfillment.

... That peak which can be reached only through "the fear of the Lord," the intellectual love of God and His law.

... That perfection of character sought by many, attained by the few who never give up their quest.

For truly it is said that the wise must teach the rest of us, but fools there will always be. And as we choose to be, so shall we be.

ORGANIZATIONS

Student Association

President's Message

If the students of Fletcher Academy are involved in their school, an active Student Association becomes inevitable. By working together as a Student Association, you can do more than any organization on campus to promote school spirit and student unity.

The work of the 1971 Student Association is finished. The responsibility to provide the God-inspired leadership so much needed in our time now falls on the Class of '72 and its underclassmen. To you I leave this admonition. "The fear of the Lord is the beginning of wisdom, and the knowledge of the holy is understanding." Proverbs 9:10.

Sincerely,
Mike Cauley

Pastor's Message

"The greatest want of the world is the want of men, - men who will not be bought or sold; men who in their inmost souls are true and honest; men who do not fear to call sin by its right name; men whose conscience is as true to duty as the needle to the pole; men who will stand for the right though the heavens fall." E. G. White, Education, p. 57

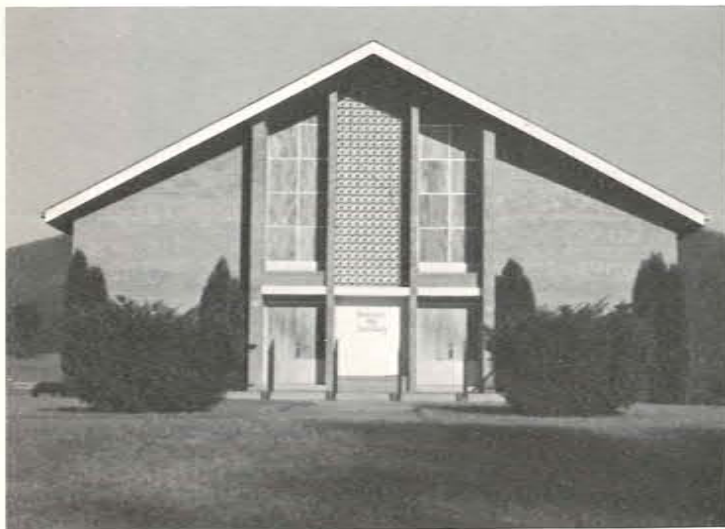

The central theme of the above statement is self-discipline. This alone can bring individual peace of mind. Most of the disorder that exists on campus and throughout the world today results from an inability or an unwillingness on the part of individuals to discipline themselves.

The only basis for peace for which the world is longing is Christ-centered living. When Christ is the center of a life, that person is controlled and rational. His actions tend toward peace.

Today my wish and prayer is that every student, teacher and worker at Fletcher will sacredly guard his own integrity and that of our school by living Christ-centered, self-disciplined lives.

Sincerely yours,
D. E. Kenyon

Principal's Message

The youth of today are living in an age that is filled with a bewildering compilation of knowledge and technology. They are thrust in an uncertain world full of violence, permissiveness, depravity, and sin. Theirs is an age of inconsistency and hypocrisy; an age of many distracting voices calling the youth to the enchanted ground of the enemy. The book Education says:

"Never was any previous generation called to meet issues so momentous; never before were young men and women confronted by perils so great as confront them today." p. 169

This, also, is an age when christian education must meet its greatest challenge. We have taught our students how to prepare for examinations and earn degrees. They can do complicated math, memorize Bible texts, and recite denominational history. We have prided ourselves for having produced scholars, leaders, and good citizens for this world. But if we have failed to develop characters after the life of Christ and to have an experience with Him that transcends the ambitions of this world we have failed in our most important goal. We are admonished to not blunder in our most important work, that of molding the characters of our children for time and for eternity. Ed. p. 170.

This is a work that must not be left only to the school. If this be our philosophy then our task of saving children will be in vain. It must take the whole-hearted interest and consecrated energy of every parent, teacher, church member and youth. God has given us a solemn obligation. Will we accept the challenge? Which eternity will we give them?

New Elementary School

A dream has finally turned into reality. Our new elementary school building will soon be finished and ready for occupancy this fall. But this reality could not have been made possible without the enthusiastic interest of many. There is the building committee, with the able chairmanship of Dr. P. J. Moore, who spent many hours of planning; Mr. Elmer Snook who has devoted his time and talent to the construction of this building; and to the many people who have given of their time and means. To you, the students and faculty say "Thank you".

EDITOR'S NOTE

It has taken many long hours of hard work to complete this year's annual. I want to thank each person on the annual staff and all others who have helped to make it a success. A great big "thank you" to you, Mr. Hunt, for your many hours of help and encouragement.

May this year's "Whispering Hills" bring many pleasant hours of reminiscing. In this pictorial presentation of fellow students, friends, teachers, and school activities, let us each keep in mind the real purpose of this year - to prepare ourselves, mentally, physically, and spiritually, to serve God and mankind.
